THE deal

Over the last 23 years Red Nose Day has helped save over 6500 babies across the country. So by spending just $5, $10 or $20 you can help to make a real difference to this wonderful cause.

CHANGE THE WORLD: Red Nose Day

Friday June 25 is Red Nose Day, and it's your chance to help save babies' lives!

The very first Aussie Red Nose Day raised $1.3m selling noses! Since 1989 badges have also been on sale, depicting a different animal with a catchy slogan each year. Some include a bear badge with the slogan, "I couldn't bear to wear a red nose," and a fish with the slogan, "I wouldn't be caught wearing a red nose".

CELEB Power

Each year, celebrities help out this great cause. This year swimmers like Eamon Sullivan and Michael Klim, and TV personalities like Sophie Faulkner are all doing their bit to help out.

WHAT You Can do

You can buy a badge or even go to rednoseday.com.au and organise to get a tray of goodies to sell. DG reader, nine-year-old, Jamie Louise got involved with Red Nose Day last year with her school! Jamie loves: Justin Bieber, the colour blue, drawing people and her mum, who is her hero.

TOP TIP!

DisneyGIRL's Palmolive Fashion Girl star, Lauren won the Community category. She loves helping out with fundraisers and volunteers for Meals on Wheels. "I've been helping to deliver food to the elderly since I was four. I love to help out where I can." LAUREN, 10
